RANDOLPH

Mrs. Fred Terry Died Tuesday, After Being Apparently Much Better.

Mrs. Fred Terry, who had been at the sanatorium for one week, where she underwent a serious operation, died at an early hour Tuesday morning. Mrs. Terry had been comparatively comfortable up to within a short time and so much so that her husband left here Sunday and returned to Worcester to resume his work, and her sister also had been at her home in White River Junction. Mrs. Terry (Bigelow) Terry married many years ago and had lived in and about this town for the most part of her married life and was very well known here. A few years ago Mr. Terry found employment in Worcester, Mass., and they went there to reside, but since that time they had been often here, as their only daughter, Mrs. George Hutchinson, lives in town, beside other relatives. Deceased is survived by her husband and daughter, a sister living at White River Junction, Mrs. L. A. Gibbs, besides several grandchildren. While Mrs. Terry had been long in ill health she had always been a great help to her family.

Rev. and Mrs. V. M. Hardy and Miss Kate Howard of Morrisville arrived here Monday for a few days' stay with old friends.

Mrs. Battles and Mrs. Morse of Braintree went to Rutland as delegates to the King's Daughters and Sons' convention Tuesday morning and in the afternoon Mrs. Fannie Vinton, Mr. Perry Smith and Mrs. Smith from the second Braintree circle also went to the same place, while several delegates from Randolph joined them.

A large number of students arrived here Monday for the agricultural school, which was to open this week at Randolph Center, but which has been delayed on account of the infantile paralysis at Brookfield.

It is understood that the management of the sanatorium has been offered $5,000 if a similar amount can be raised for the above institution. It is expected that this will be contributed soon and the names of the donors will then be made known and plans for the placing of the fund divulged.

GROTON

The Tom Thumb wedding, given in the Methodist church Friday evening, was a novel and pretty affair. The entertainment was under the direction of Miss Katherine Migliario, who did most excellent work in her three days' training of the children. The church was appropriately decorated for the occasion, and despite the heavy rainfall there was a large attendance. Following is a list of the small people who took the leading parts: Tom Thumb, William Chalmers, age five; the bride, Margaret Blanchard, age five; maid of honor, Ruby Clark, age five; best man, Stanley Tacey, age six; bride's parents, Lawrence Blanchard and Grabel Moore; grandparents, Frank and Mildred Lamphere; groom's parents, Robert Pillsbury and Ethel James; grandmothers, Crawford Adams and Mildred Lamphere; bride's sister, Ida Mae Davidson; Billy Sunday, officiating clergyman; Kermit Whitehill; ushers, Seth Eastman, Albert Keenan; flower girls, Theresa Emery, Joanna Welch, Viola Lagore, Beatrice Welch. After the ceremony, solos were rendered as follows: "We Are Growing Old Together," Maggie Deane; "Silver Threads," and "Among the Gold," Crawford Adams; and other songs were rendered by Alice Lord, Mildred Hood, Cyrus Eastman, Ida Frost and Winifred Sennett. A reception was held, the little folks all carrying out their respective parts, which well became their dress suits and satin gowns. Ice cream and cake were served. The president of the ladies' aid wishes to thank all who assisted in any way, and especially Mrs. H. T. Morrison, who furnished music.

Mr. and Mrs. McGilboney and son, James, of Montpelier were over-Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Smith.

BETHEL

School Being Conducted at Locust Creek for Three Pupils.

Perhaps the smallest school in the state is the one situated a mile and a half from this village on the main road to Rutland, known as the Locust Creek school. It has a total registration of three pupils, all of whom are bright students in the fifth grade. They are Leila, aged 10 years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dana Grow; Clarence, aged 10 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Sharp; and Viola, aged nine years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. Dutton. Their teacher is Miss Laura M. Manning, who was educated at the Northampton, Mass., high school and has taught the same school several terms. The town district school directors consider that there are sufficient reasons for maintaining the school at a cost of $150 a year more than the cost of tuition and transportation to the village schools would be.

Mr. and Mrs. Cassius Bostwick of Warren visited at H. L. Washburn's last Saturday and Sunday.

Road Commissioner F. G. Dutton is making good progress on the state road work near the Grow place.

Oliver N. Barrows is recovering at his home from the effects of a minor operation to which he submitted at the Randolph sanatorium. The mail on route three is being delivered by his substitute, Edgar H. W. Owen.

Miss Marion Bullard returned yesterday from a three weeks' absence in Rochester, where she cared for a typhoid fever patient.

A week ago, Dr. E. C. Burrell of Barre, whose mother and other relatives live here, was driving his automobile to Pomfret, when in order to meet a team he drove so near the edge of a bank that the earth slid and his car fell down the side of the bank and was seriously damaged. He escaped all injury by being thrown farther down the bank, almost into a brook.

Misses Edith and Esther Gilman went yesterday to resume their studies at juniors at the Columbia Teachers' college, New York.

The remaining Bethel boys in the machine-gun company, the supply company and headquarters company were mustered out of the United States service last Saturday and Monday. Among them were W. H. Harlow, Irving W. Hackett, Robert L. Morrison and Charles M. Beckwith of the machine gun company; Harold Bundy, David Bodner and Rae Washburn of the supply company, and Edward L. Rogers of the band. This leaves Walter Hudson, Denzil Rice, and Glenn Twichell of the unassigned recruits, still at Fort Ethan Allen.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Whitecomb and their daughter, Katherine, of South Walpole, Mass., are with relatives for a week.

Miss Nellie Blake returned Monday from a week's visit in Brookfield, which included a reunion of school friends.

Averill Rogers, who had been employed three months in Northampton, Mass., is now engaged as clerk in the Hampshire National bank of that city.
